

Giulio Baraldi

Giulio Baraldi is an Italian actor, theatre director, playwright, and creative producer based in Berlin. His work explores contemporary social dynamics, psychological tension, identity, and human relationships through a mix of realism, irony, and emotional intensity. Inspired by both European auteur cinema and modern theatre, he develops original projects that combine sharp dialogue, strong visual imagination, and provocative themes. Alongside his artistic work, he is also active in theatre education, international collaborations, and the development of independent cultural projects.
